The Botany in Action (BIA) Fellowship program at Phipps Conservatory fosters the development of the next generation of plant-based scientists, committed, first, to excellent research, and second, to educational outreach. Open to Ph.D. students enrolled at U.S. graduate institutions, conducting plant-based scientific research, the program provides each fellow with: 1) $5,000 for use towards research-related expenses, US or abroad*; 2) an all-expenses paid trip to Phipps, to engage in science outreach training and opportunities to translate and communicate research to non-scientific, public audiences through written, visual and/or oral means, (dependent on next year's COVID19 situation); and subsequent opportunities to connect their research with the public through programs, exhibits, and other outreach venues.
